

Quincy L. Branch
President and CEO
Branch Benefits Consultants

Quincy is a second-generation insurance professional who was born in Long Beach, California but raised in New Orleans, LA. A “country boy” at heart, Quincy moved to Las Vegas in 1993. A graduate from University of Nevada Las Vegas (UNLV) with a B.S. in Business Administration-Management, Quincy started his insurance career in college working for his father’s agency while still working on his degree.

“Q” is a leader in his industry and community. He serves as a deacon at his church and volunteers at various charities in Southern Nevada. In 2011 he was appointed to sit on the IIABA’s National Young Agents Committee and served as Chairman of that committee. As for the business community, Quincy has served on the Urban Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, was elected as Chairman on the Board of Directors for the National Association of African American Insurance Agents and in 2013 was honored by Vegas, Inc. as one of Las Vegas’s 40 under 40. He was also selected as one of Employee Benefits Advisors 10 Rising Stars in 2013 along with being honored as one of Insurance Business Americas Hot 100 for 2015. In 2018, he was called to serve on the Government Affairs Committee of the IIABA and is currently serving on the Federal Advisory Committee on Insurance – an appointment received under the Obama administration. He has been an active member of the NIIA board since 2010.

Quincy values his time with family the most. His wife of 19 years-Tamika and 2 kids (Quamir & Sanai) stay busy doing home projects, traveling, cooking and anything that involves the sport of basketball.

“I am looking forward to an exciting year for NIIA and despite these trying times how we will continue to move forward in promoting and strengthening the value and relationships of this industry. We have a great board and tremendous support that should allow us to accomplish some great things over the course of the next year.”
