

Taylor Holmes

ELC, Vice President

Growing up I always saw my dad working in the insurance industry, and as I got older to really understand it, I swore to myself I would never get into industry. Well, after trying out many jobs such as retail, food industry, and even the construction industry, I realized it was time for a change and to try something new. My dad co-owned an agency and told me they were hiring in the Life and Health side. I jumped on it and was able to get my license quickly. I worked on that side for about 2 years, and then found myself heading towards the commercial side. I also worked towards getting my P&C license and ended up handling the small business unit. After about another 2 years, I was hired on at a different agency and am now working in personal lines. I have learned to really enjoy what I do, and I keep pushing to better myself with as much knowledge as I can. Being involved with the NIIA Emerging Leaders has helped in developing relationships and opening doors to different markets and learning experiences. I currently sit as the Chair-Elect for the Emerging Leaders Committee.